Trunk Show

El Bosque/The Forest, a traveling sculpture exhibit, allows us to see the forest through the trees: It addresses issues of deforestation. The free show visits eight cities in the United States and Mexico and can be seen at Ernst & Young Plaza downtown May 2-30. Fifteen acclaimed American and Mexican sculptors each created a "tree" using any material except wood or its byproducts for the project, and the results are intriguing. Artists include Beverly Pepper, Naomi Siegmann, Steve Tobin, Kiyoto Ota and Brian Nash Gill. 725 S. Figueroa St., downtown, 213.955.7150.
